

Ardens Privacy Policy

GDPR

We have updated our Terms & Conditions and Privacy Policy in line with the introduction of the new GDPR laws coming into effect on the 25th May 2018.

These updates do not change what we use your personal information for, but simply let you know what information is processed and how it is processed.

When filling in any of the forms on our main website or support desk, or if you meet us at an event, you may be asked to enter personal information, for example, your name, email address or practice details. We will use this information to get in touch with you regarding the subject of your query or feedback and with your permission, we will add you to our mailing list.

We believe that all emails that we send to you contain important information and updates which will help you make the most out of using Ardens if you wish. If however, you decide you would not like to receive any of our updates, remember that you can simply click 'unsubscribe' at the bottom of any email.

You do not have to take any action, but if you would like to find out more information, please see our privacy policy here.
